The Pittsburgh and New York National

League teams played two games at the Polo grounds yesterday. Both were characterized by great fielding. Each team had a simply phenomenal streak in this respect, and the spectators from what they had heard of the phenomenal streak in this respect, and the spectators, from what they had heard of the Pittsburghs had not the least idea that they sould play as they did yesterday. The visitors' weak spot, however, was in batting. The star performance of both contests was Glasscock's fielding. He was stopping base hits in left field, centre field, and almost in right field. He was also scooping up grounders with one hand in beautiful style. Jordan and Burke made catches in the first game the like of which have never been seen on these grounds. Both ran half way up the embankment and, after stumbling and falling, made the catches successfully. The fact should not be lost sight of that Whistler was also in the swim of remarkable playing. No matter where the hall was thrown, high in the air, away to one side of him, or on the kround, he siways held on toit. Rusie pitched a remarkable game, the Pittsburgshe getting but two safe hits off him, and only twenty-six of them coming to the bat. Philips showed up well. The game was guickly played, and in nearly every inning on both sides it was one. Iwo, three, and out. In the second half of the third inning Miller was struck on the neck by a pitched ball. He dropped to the ground unconscious, as if he had been touched by a live electric wire. He regained consciousness in a few minutes and was assisted to a seat. It was thought at first that the blow was fatal. Instead of this, however Miller was well enough to go back to third base in the next inning. He is certainly a very piucky little fellow. The score:

BROOMLYN (N. L.), 2: CLEVELAND (N. I.), 0. A fluer day to witness a ball game than yesusual Saturday crowd did not turn out at Washington Park. The cause of this was undoubtedly the great Futurity race, which attracted so many of the irrockiny team's admirers. They missed a rare treat, however, as a better or more exciting game has not been played at Washington Park this season. The display was not such as to remind the spectators that the leader and the tail-ender were playing. On the contrary, if either team wanted this game to win the championship, it could not have played any better.

Both blithers were effective, and the lightning-like plok-ups and throws of the infielders were features. The Brooklyns made their two runs in the opening inning. Foutz hit to the cutfield. The bell made a bad bound and never stopped rolling until it had reached the extreme centre field. The visitors would have had everything their own way in the last inning if one hit had been made. With three on the bases and only one out it began to look gather serious. Lovett, however, steadled down and retired the next two batsmen. The second usual Saturday erowd did not turn out at Capt. Comiskey's men broke their losing spell yesterday at Brotherhood Park, and they were as proud as peacocks. It wasn't a game for cranks to get stuck on; still, the last inning provoked considerable excitement, and everybody was apparently on tip-toes when Slattery went to the bat with two men on bases and two men out. It was a trying situation for the cleverest batsman, and Slattery hit the ball hard, but it dropped into Ryan's hands, and the Chicagos were credited with their third victory out of thirteen successive games. Neither team showed any unusual brilliancy in the field, neither was the batting very hard, but the Chicagos seemed to profit more by mistakes and won. The chief attractions of the Chicago's playing was the work of Pleffer.

takes and won. The chief attractions of the Chicago's playing was the work of Pieffer, Comiskey, and Farrell, who put out twenty of the twenty-seven men. In the last inning, with two men out, Capt. Comiskey met with the missortune of having a finger broken, and he was obliged to retire.

Neither team scored in the first three innings. Connor got his base on balls in the fourth, was forced out at second by dishardson, and then O'Hourke made a long hit to left field for a home run. An earned run was made in the sixth inning on O'Hourke's acrifice. In the seventh, errors by Boyle, Pieffer, and Whitney's singles and Slattery's sacrifice. In the secone standing 7 to 5 against them, the New Yorks tried hard to win. Crane opened out with a two-barger, Gore sent him to third on a single, and Boyle's fumble allowed Crane to 'score. Connor's sacrifice sent Gore agross the plate. Two men were on bases when O'liourke stepped to the bat. He forced Brown out at third, and it was only by a hair that he was not thrown out at first and a double play completed. It was at this juncture that Comiskey was injured, and King took his place. O'Hourke managed to steal second, but there he was left.

The Chicagos made three runs in the fourth inning, principally through the errors of Goro. Brown, and Slattery. Danny Richardson's fumble in the sixth and crane's wild pitch gave them two runs. In the seventh Bartson's base on balls and Duffy's home run adject two more runs, which settled the game. The score:

BROORLYN (F. L.). 14: CLEVELAND (F. L.). 10.

The prettiest kind of fielding was what saved the Brooklyn team from defeat in their game with the Cleveland Club on the Fastern Park grounds yesterday. Weyhing, Ward's star pitcher, was bandled roughly by the visitors. They had their ere on the ball and base hits came fast. Twenty-two safe hits and eight bases on balls is the record made by the Clevelands off Weyhing's pitching. Still they could only realize ten runs. Two runs were lost by stupid base running by Sutcliffs and McGill. Umpire Sheridan demoralized the visitors in the third inning when he declared Tebeau out for interfering with a batted ball. The visitors kicked strenuously, but to no avail. The Clevelands put McGill in the box, and his work was of the poorest kind. He was both wild and unstendy. With wretched pitching on the part of McGill and costly errors by his supporters, the Brooklyns found no trouble in scoring runs. The score:

AN ARER DEPRESON.

A. G. Mille's Reply to Recent Cottletons of Ris Reorganization Scheme. The Sporting Times will publish to-day a lengthy letter from Mr. A. G. Mills in reply to adverse criticism on his great reorganization scheme of the Amateur Athletic Union. The claim has been made that the new order of affairs would not give the smaller clubs an equal voice in the legislation of the new body. Mr. Mills meets the issue squarely, and his letter throws light upon many misunderstood points. The pertinent parts are as follows:

attention of the present Board can be despatched at least as quickly.

In the concluding paragraph Mr. Mills lays down a challenge to any doubting member of the Board of Managors.

I can say from personal knowledge that members of the present Board have within the last two years done an amount of work and devoted thereto an amount of time far beyond any reasonable requirement that should be made upon them by club or invividuals interested. They started with a small number of clubs in a limited territory under a system of government deemed secretal to conditions then existing. By their deemed secretal to conditions then existing. By their started with a small number of clubs in such proportions that not a member will. I believe in the present system is toirable as a bermarent scheme. To say that any member of that Board is opposed to giving home rule to every section and restricting the jurisdiction and the duties of the Central Board would. Mr. Casey winning. Himself and Mr. McQuade have come over here simply for the purpose of giving an impatus to the game, which they say is making great headway in the 1 nited States. While here the visitors are the guests of Mr. Gaffney, an old friend of theirs. There was a big attendance yesterday, including several priesta, and the greatest interest was evinced in the contest. Three games were played. 21 up, Casey and McQuade winning. The visitors afterward played Messra. Murray and Keen, and of course, won, but it may be said that Mr. Murray who is one of the Everton footbal player, as really a splendly player, and had he been well supported, a most exciting game would have been witnessed against the cracks.
